Western Undergraduate Exchange Enrollment Report Fall 2011

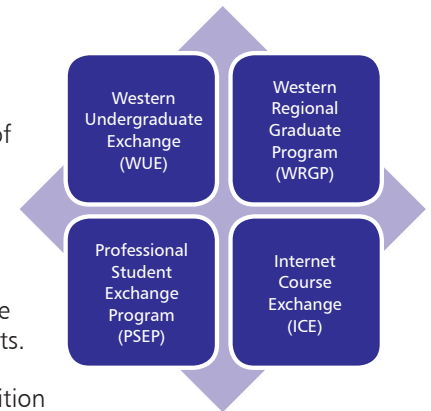

WICHE's Regional Student Exchange Programs

Some 60 years ago, our Western states formed the Western Regional Education Compact and agreed to share higher education resources through the Western Interstate Commission for Higher Education (WICHE), the genesis for our Student Exchange Program (www.wiche.edu/sep). The Midwest, South and Northeast also created similar compacts that facilitate regional student exchange. Together, we have collectively demonstrated the effectiveness of regional collaboration for decades. Regional student exchange allows institutions to maximize their resources by filling available capacity and reducing unnecessary duplication of programs. Critical niche programs remain robust, and all participating programs can attract the best and brightest students and bring diverse perspectives into the classroom. Furthermore, regional partnerships help facilitate the creation of programs in emerging workforce areas and dynamic fields, such as microtechnology, nanotechnology, green building, energy conservation, and new media.

There has been renewed interest in regional cooperation since the economic downturn began in late 2007. Once again this year, 14 of 15 our WICHE states are facing dramatic cuts in their budgets, and economists are cautious about predicting exactly when our economy might begin to improve. Fortunately, the regional higher education access programs that policymakers had the foresight to approve years ago continue to benefit Western residents. Students and their families continue to save hundreds of millions of dollars each year in tuition across a range of institutions and programs.

Current WICHE student exchange students, graduates, and institutional administrators attest to the value of WICHE's Student Exchange Program (we've quoted several within this report). Our program provides affordable access to higher education, allowing Westerners to pursue their dreams and contribute to their home state's workforce.

◀ The map to the left illustrates how regional education exchange remains a critical tool in growing an educated workforce, particularly in the West, where states face very different demographic futures. Many states confront simultaneous enrollment and fiscal pressures. Some high-growth states have too many students, while others face the opposite problem. Helping students migrate between states that face differing enrollment challenges provides a flexible, state-responsive solution.

Through WICHE's three programs, more than 30,600 residents of 15 Western states are currently enrolled at reduced levels of tuition in a variety of undergraduate, graduate, and professional programs. For the 2011-12 academic year, the Western Undergraduate Exchange (WUE, www.wiche.edu/wue) – WICHE's most well known program, helped more than 29,000 students and their families save more than $223.8 million dollars in tuition by paying 150 percent of resident tuition, instead of the full nonresident rate at 148 participating WUE institutions.

"I wanted to attend a maritime academy to become a licensed ship officer, but my home state of Washington doesn't offer such a program. WUE allowed me to attend California Maritime Academy and pay reduced tuition, taking a lot of financial stress off my parents. I'm now also a mechanical engineering major; this will be a great skill set to have and should make me very competitive in the workforce. I could not have considered investing the extra time required for this if I hadn't received the WUE discount."

– Michael, Washington resident, Class of 2012, California Maritime Academy, Mechanical Engineering

WICHE has options for graduate and professional students as well. More than 850 masters, doctorate and graduate certificate students enrolled in programs of study through the Western Regional Graduate Program (WRGP, www.wiche.edu/wrgp) have saved an estimated $11.5 million dollars; they pay only resident tuition, instead of nonresident, and can choose from more than 250 participating programs. And almost 700 students paid significantly reduced tuition while preparing for their professional degree in 10 healthcare professions while enrolled through WICHE's Professional Student Exchange Program (PSEP, www.wiche.edu/psep). Finally, a network of Western institutions are partnering to exchange courses via the Internet, through WICHE's Internet Course Exchange (ICE, www.wiche.edu/ice).

The Western Undergraduate Exchange (WUE)

The Western Undergraduate Exchange (WUE, www.wiche.edu/wue) is a regional tuition-reciprocity agreement that enables students from WICHE states to enroll in participating two- and four-year public institutions at 150 percent of the enrolling institution's resident tuition. WUE was created in 1987 and is now the largest program of its kind in the nation. Since the first exchanges began in 1988, WUE has provided WICHE students and their parents with discounts on more than 328,650 annual tuition bills – saving them an estimated $1.76 billion.

For answers to all your questions about WUE, visit www.wiche.edu/askWICHE

The program continues to grow. In 2011-12 more than 29,000 WUE students saved $223.8 million overall: an average of $7,696 each. The chart below shows the continued growth of the program over the past five years. Table 3 shows the number of WUE students received in and sent from each state over the last five years.

Students can choose from 148 participating WUE institutions. Colorado Northwestern Community College and Eastern Oregon University are WUE's newest members. WICHE encourages nonparticipating institutions to consider joining the WUE network as a tool to meet their recruitment and enrollment goals.

To learn more about the wide array of programs available at WUE institutions, consult our searchable database, located at www.wiche.edu/wue. For additional details, follow the links to the receiving institutions' WUE profiles and websites.

Fall 2011 WUE Enrollment Trends

Last fall's WUE headcount demonstrates that WUE students know where the current and future job opportunities are. Their "top 10" majors are directly aligned with some of the West's most crucial workforce needs. They are healthcare, the biological and biomedical sciences, engineering, and business.

- Healthcare majors that WUE students are studying include: nursing, the allied health professions (such as physical therapy, occupational therapy, radiology, respiratory therapy, nuclear medical technology, audiology, and clinical laboratory science), dental hygiene, healthcare administration, and healthcare information technology (HIT). Students are also using WUE to complete their undergraduate degrees to advance to the professional level; many are majoring in premed, pre dentistry, pre pharmacy, and pre veterinary studies.

- Biological and biomedical science majors targeted by WUE students include biochemistry, biotechnology, genetics, microbiology, botany, zoology, and marine biology.
- Engineering majors of interest to WUE students include specialties in biomedical, chemical, civil, computer, electrical, mechanical, mining and mineral, nuclear, petroleum, industrial, geological and geophysical, and electrical engineering.
- Business majors that are drawing WUE students include: accounting, business administration and management, finance, hospitality and hotel administration, human resource management, construction management, and international business.

Other majors at the top of WUE students' lists are in the areas of: education; the social sciences; visual and performing arts; psychology; parks, recreation, leisure, and fitness studies; and communication and journalism. Research shows that graduates tend to join the workforce and settle in the region where they studied. It is good to know that through WUE, our states are working to keep our best and brightest in the West.

Detailed WUE enrollment reports are available on WICHE's website, and custom CIP-code-based reports are also available by request to state higher education

"Most of the Western states have been severely affected by the economic downturn and decreased funding for higher education. WUE gives students the ability to widen their horizons and take advantage of exciting educational opportunities that are out of state yet at an affordable price. New Mexico State University is benefitting from WUE; we are seeing an influx of students who are looking to escape daunting tuition costs. In fact, some NMSU students enrolled through WUE are paying less than they would in their home state."

– Candace Aragon, Coordinator Admissions/Records,
New Mexico State University, Las Cruces

"My parents were not able to finish high school or earn their college degree because they had me at a very young age. They worked hard to give me a life they were not able to have themselves as children. Going to college was the only thing my parents ever asked of me. We are of a lower-income bracket, and I have three younger siblings, and we are all very close in age. We have all graduated or will graduate from college. Without WUE there would've been no way for me to attend college for financial reasons. I am now in my third semester at Montana Tech. My estimated cost of tuition is around $19,000 because I am out of state. However, with WUE I am paying about the same as an in-state student. Thanks to WUE I'm able to continue my degree, get a good job, and pay my parents back for every ounce of effort they put forth to raise me and help me get where I am today."

Montana Tech of the University of Montana, Mining Engineering

offices and enrollment planners of participating institutions. These reports show where WUE students are enrolling (by state) and which programs of study they are seeking, helping stakeholders to make WUE work for their institutions and their state.

Learn which out-of-state programs your state's residents seek through WUE and which programs in your state attract the most WUE students from out of state. To request these custom reports, contact our office at 303.541.0214 or info-sep@wiche.edu.

Why Participate in WUE?

WICHE encourages nonparticipating institutions to consider how WUE can help them meet their recruiting and enrollment goals. Institutions, with the guidance of their state governing agencies, have significant latitude in the way they can use WUE. Our WUE partner institutions formulate admissions control policies that work best for them and their state workforce but benefit enrolled students and their families from elsewhere in the West.

Each state or institution controls its level of participation in WUE. Some states set limits on the total number of students admitted. Each state and institution chooses which programs they wish to make available to WUE students and under what conditions. In many cases institutions have opened all of their programs on a space-available basis. In others institutions have excluded some programs or have listed only specific programs that are open to WUE students.

Whether your institution is currently participating in WUE or now considering it, we encourage you to read the WUE FAQs for institutions (www.wiche.edu/info/publications/wueFAQ.pdf), as well as “Student Migration: Relief Valve for State Enrollment and Demographic Pressures” (www.wiche.edu/info/publications/PI-Student_Migration.pdf), which explains the policy logic behind WUE and other regional tuition reciprocity programs.

For additional information about joining WUE, contact WICHE’s director of student exchange at 303.541.0214 or info-sep@wiche.edu.

“Both students and administrators consider it a great advantage to participate in WUE. It enables students to meet tuition costs for their studies, and it makes it possible for institutions to recruit out-of-state students whose presence enhances the diversity of the student body. As we talk to students, they express their gratitude for being spared insurmountable debt burdens and for the ability to pursue their professional dreams and can focus on their studies. The collaborative effort between WICHE staff, the participating institutions and their states, and the students is inspirational.”

– Amber Cook, Accounting Specialist,
Financial Aid and Scholarships, University of Utah

“I attended a track camp at NAU my freshman year of high school and fell in love with Flagstaff and Northern Arizona University. But my senior year, I had to face the reality that my parents couldn’t afford out-of-state tuition. I applied to NAU anyway, through WUE. Thanks to WUE my parents were able to send me to NAU. I found a major that I love and professors that I respect and admire. I’ve had the opportunity to attend conferences, deliver papers, apply for awards, and participate in funded research because of the amazing faculty at NAU. I am very grateful for WUE.”
